MEET HIALEAH HECTOR

This papi chulo was born and raised in Hialeah near Noooo Que Barato and is a Barbara Goleman drop out. He currently lives with his mom in West Hialeah and hangs out in East Hialeah with his boys. Hialeah Hector drives a souped-up Honda Civic with 14-inch gold spinners. His favorite cocktail at La Cocina is the Pata Sucia and you can find him playing dominos en el patio fumando Yerba or hanging out at his beloved New York Style deli, Stephen's Delicatessen. Side Note: He's looking for his Pata Sucia love and she must be from la Ciudad del Progreso. Keep an eye out for una jevita rica he might like.

WE GIVE BACK

Tis' the season for altruism and gratitude. And in the spirit of such kindness, we will be kicking off a charity event benefiting Shoes for Streets. On December 23rd, 2019, starting at 5 pm, we are hosting our first ever Noche Noche Buena at La Cocina in Hialeah. This night will be a full-on traditional Noche Buena in Miami, complete with a Caja China pig roast, coquito shots, drink specials, live music, salsa dancing and much more! So don't forget your dancing shoes, and of course, new and used shoes for the homeless community! Bonus: donors receive a free beer, a glass of wine, or a shot of Coquito for their generosity! See you soon!

CRISTY'S PICKS OF THE MONTH

WHAT IS CRISTY CRAVING THIS MONTH?

The best dishes, in my opinion, are the ones made with a few simple ingredients where the chef highlights his talent for transcending food to the next level. Chef Juan Borjas of Spillover accomplished that and then some with his Prawns Toast. Those words may read simplicity, but the flavor profile on this dish exhilarates the senses. It's the perfect combination of succulent prawns and crunchy sourdough toast doused in a chipotle lemon butter. It's become my favorite dish on the newly revamped menu by Chef Juan and my go-to after a long day of holiday shopping—for best results pair with a chilled glass of wine. azzzzzzaaa

🌿 NOCHE NOCHE BUENA 🌿

On the night before Noche Buena, La Cocina in Hialeah will be throwing a "Noche Noche Buena" party and charity event that will put to shame every other Noche Buena you've ever attended. Picture your family's Noche Buena but on steroids. This festivity is brought to you by Tito's Vodka, Caja China pig roasters, and Hialeah Hector, La Cocina's official mascot. On December 23rd, 5 pm, Cuban time, La Cocina will be in full swing with live music by Plena Libre, salsa dancing, a Cuban Santa, bacon-infused vodka shots, and free roasted pig with all the trimmings which you can enjoy for free until we run out! We're also aiming to do some good deeds this holiday and are requesting guests to bring new or used shoe donations for Shoes for Streets, which provides them to the homeless community. And if you do donate, La Cocina will treat you with a free beer, a glass of wine, or a shot of Coquito! Other fun specials is a complimentary bottle of Coquito when you purchase a $50 gift card, $5 Burrito Sabanero Mule cocktails when the song plays every hour, and free Coquito shots at midnight. Pero like...no te lo pierdas.

LOCAL SPOTLIGHT- PAN CON PODCAST

This month our super boss, Matt Kuscher, was featured on Chef Michael Beltran's podcast, Pan Con Podcast. They spoke about a plethora of topics, one being dolphin sacrifice, but hopefully not in the literal sense. Chef Beltran is the chef-owner of Ariete, Chug's Diner, Leña, and Navé, all concepts you should go out and support if you have yet to. The podcast lends itself as a casual conversation between local chefs, owners, cigar enthusiasts, and creatives, to discuss topics ranging from business and bootstrapping innovation to more vulnerable points like addiction and how it affects the good people of the hospitality industry. Not only does this podcast have one of the best "pod" names we've ever seen— the content is meaty, delicious, and equally as good as the title implies. Tune in, subscribe and join the conversation at www.dademagazine.com/panconpodcast.
